

Minneapolis & S. L. R. Co. v. United States

Supreme Court of the United States

November 16-17, 1959, Argued ; December 14, 1959, Decided *

No. 12

Reporter

361 U.S. 173 *; 80 S. Ct. 229 **; 4 L. Ed. 2d 223 ***; 1959 U.S. LEXIS 2 ****

MINNEAPOLIS & ST. LOUIS RAILWAY CO. v. UNITED STATES ET AL.

Prior History: [****1] APPEAL FROM THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF MINNESOTA.

Disposition: 165 F.Supp. 893, affirmed.

Core Terms

---

carrier, stock, acquisition, railroads, public interest, Commerce, intervened, anti trust law, transportation, Clayton Act, employees, relieved, acquire, per share, authorization, policies, approve, conditions, subsidiary, contracts, traffic, terms

LexisNexis® Headnotes

---

Business & Corporate Compliance > ... > Transportation Law > Interstate Commerce > Restraints of Trade

HN1 Interstate Commerce, Restraints of Trade

Section 5(2) of the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.S. § 5(2), provides, in part: (a) It shall be lawful, with the approval and authorization of the Commission, as provided in subdivision (b) for two or more carriers jointly, to acquire control of another through ownership of its stock or otherwise. (b) Whenever a transaction is proposed under subdivision (a) of this paragraph, the carrier seeking authority therefor shall present an application to the Commission, and thereupon the Commission shall notify designated parties, and shall afford reasonable opportunity for interested parties to be heard. If the Commission shall consider it necessary in order to determine whether the findings specified below may properly be made, it shall set said application for public hearing; and a public hearing shall be held in all cases where carriers by railroad are involved unless the Commission determines that a public hearing is not necessary in the public interest. If the Commission finds that, subject to such terms and conditions and such modifications as it shall find to be just and reasonable, the proposed transaction is within the scope of subdivision (a) of this paragraph and will be consistent with the public interest, it shall enter an order approving and authorizing such transaction, upon the terms and conditions, and with the modifications, so found to be just and reasonable.

---

* Together with No. 27, South Dakota et al. v. United States et al., and No. 28, Minnesota et al. v. United States et al., also on appeals from the same Court.

Business & Corporate Compliance > ... > Transportation Law > Interstate Commerce > Restraints of Trade

Governments > State & Territorial Governments > Boundaries

HN2 Interstate Commerce, Restraints of Trade

Section 5(2)(c) of the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.S. § 5(2)(c), states: In passing upon any proposed transaction under the provisions of this paragraph, the Commission shall give weight to the following considerations, among others: (1) The effect of the proposed transaction upon adequate transportation service to the public; (2) the effect upon the public interest of the inclusion, or failure to include, other railroads in the territory involved in the proposed transaction; (3) the total fixed charges resulting from the proposed transaction; and (4) the interest of the carrier employees affected. Section 5(2)(d) states: The Commission shall have authority in the case of a proposed transaction under this paragraph involving a railroad or railroads, as a prerequisite to its approval of the proposed transaction, to require, upon equitable terms, the inclusion of another railroad or other railroads in the territory involved, upon petition by such railroad or railroads requesting such inclusion, and upon a finding that such inclusion is consistent with the public interest. Section 5(2)(f) states: As a condition of its approval, under this paragraph, of any transaction involving a carrier or carriers by railroad subject to the provisions of this chapter, the Commission shall require a fair and equitable arrangement to protect the interests of the railroad employees affected.

Business & Corporate Compliance > ... > Transportation Law > Interstate Commerce > Restraints of Trade

Mergers & Acquisitions Law > Antitrust > Regulated Industry Mergers

HN3 Interstate Commerce, Restraints of Trade

Section 5(11) of the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.S. § 5(11) provides in part that: The authority conferred by this section shall be exclusive and plenary, and any carrier or corporation participating in any transaction approved by the Commission thereunder, shall have full power to carry such transaction into effect and to own and operate any properties and exercise any control or franchises acquired through said transaction and any carriers participating in a transaction approved or authorized under the provisions of this section shall be and they are hereby relieved from the operation of the antitrust laws and of all other restraints, limitations, and prohibitions of law insofar as may be necessary to enable it to carry into effect the transaction so approved or provided for in accordance with the terms and conditions, if any, imposed by the Commission, and to hold, maintain, and operate any properties and exercise any control or franchises acquired through such transaction.

Business & Corporate Compliance > ... > Transportation Law > Interstate Commerce > Restraints of Trade

Mergers & Acquisitions Law > Antitrust > Regulated Industry Mergers

Antitrust & Trade Law > Clayton Act > Remedies > General Overview

Business & Corporate Compliance > ... > Transportation Law > Interstate Commerce > US Interstate Commerce Commission

HN4 Interstate Commerce, Restraints of Trade

Section 5(11) of the Interstate Commerce Act (ICA), 49 U.S.C.S. § 5(11) is both a more recent and a more specific expression of congressional policy than § 1 of the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C.S. § 1, and § 7 of the Clayton Act, 15

U.S.C.S. § 18, and in terms relieves the acquiring carrier, upon approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission of the acquisition, from the operation of the antitrust laws. Although § 5(11) of the ICA, 49 U.S.C.S. § 5(11), does not authorize the Commission to ignore the antitrust laws, there can be little doubt that the Commission is not to measure proposals for acquisitions by the standards of the antitrust laws. The problem is one of accommodation of § 5(2) of the ICA, 49 U.S.C.S. § 5(2), and the antitrust legislation. The Commission remains obligated to estimate the scope and appraise the effects of the curtailment of competition which will result from the proposed acquisition and consider them along with the advantages of improved service and other matters in the public interest to determine whether the acquisition will assist in effectuating the over-all transportation policy.

Business & Corporate Compliance > ... > Transportation Law > Interstate Commerce > Restraints of Trade

Mergers & Acquisitions Law > Antitrust > Regulated Industry Mergers

Antitrust & Trade Law > Regulated Industries > General Overview

Business & Corporate Compliance > ... > Transportation Law > Interstate Commerce > US Interstate Commerce Commission

HN5 Interstate Commerce, Restraints of Trade

Even though a railroad acquisition might otherwise violate the antitrust laws, Congress has authorized the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve them, if it finds they are in the public interest, because it recognized that in some circumstances they were appropriate for effectuation of the national transportation policy. It was informed that this policy would be furthered by encouraging the organization of stronger units in the industry. And in authorizing those acquisitions it did not import the general policies of the anti-trust laws as a measure of their permissibility. It in terms relieved participants in appropriate acquisitions from the requirements of those laws. § 5(11) of the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.S. § 5(11). It must be presumed that, in enacting this legislation, Congress took account of the fact that railroads are subject to strict regulation and supervision. Against this background, no other inference is possible but that, as a factor in determining the propriety of railroad acquisitions the preservation of competition among carriers, although still a value, is significant chiefly as it aids in the attainment of the objectives of the national transportation policy.

Antitrust & Trade Law > Regulated Industries > Transportation > Railroads

Business & Corporate Compliance > ... > Transportation Law > Interstate Commerce > Restraints of Trade

Antitrust & Trade Law > Regulated Industries > General Overview

Antitrust & Trade Law > Regulated Industries > Transportation > Common Carriers

Mergers & Acquisitions Law > Antitrust > Regulated Industry Mergers

Business & Corporate Compliance > ... > Transportation Law > Interstate Commerce > US Interstate Commerce Commission

HN6 Transportation, Railroads

As respects railroad acquisitions, the Interstate Commerce Commission is not so bound by the antitrust laws that it must permit them to overbear what it finds to be in the public interest. A contrary view would, in effect, permit the Commission to authorize only those acquisitions which would not offend those laws. This would render meaningless the exemption relieving the participants in a properly approved acquisition of the requirements of those antitrust laws. Resolution of the conflicting considerations is a complex task which requires extensive facilities, expert judgment and considerable knowledge of the transportation industry. Congress left that task to the Commission to the end that the wisdom and experience of that Commission may be used not only in connection with this form of transportation, but in its coordination of all other forms. The wisdom and experience of that Commission, not of the courts, must determine whether the proposed acquisition is consistent with the public interest.

Business & Corporate Compliance > ... > Transportation Law > Interstate Commerce > Restraints of Trade

Business & Corporate Compliance > ... > Transportation Law > Interstate Commerce > US Interstate Commerce Commission

HN7 Interstate Commerce, Restraints of Trade

Congress has left the task of making the determination as to the effects of a railroad acquisition on competition to the wisdom and experience of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Where the determination it makes rests upon adequate findings which are, in turn, supported by substantial evidence, it is well within the limits of its discretion under the Interstate Commerce Act.

Antitrust & Trade Law > Clayton Act > Scope

Business & Corporate Compliance > ... > Transportation Law > Interstate Commerce > Restraints of Trade

Antitrust & Trade Law > Clayton Act > General Overview

Business & Corporate Compliance > ... > Transportation Law > Interstate Commerce > US Interstate Commerce Commission

HN8 Antitrust & Trade Law, Clayton Act

Section 10 of the Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C.S. § 20, prohibits a common carrier engaged in commerce from having any dealings in securities of more than $ 50,000, in the aggregate, in any one year, with another corporation, when the said common carrier shall have upon its board of directors any person who is at the same time a director of such other corporation, except such purchases as shall be made by competitive bidding under regulations to be prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Antitrust & Trade Law > Clayton Act > Scope

Business & Corporate Compliance > ... > Transportation Law > Interstate Commerce > Restraints of Trade

Antitrust & Trade Law > Clayton Act > General Overview

Business & Corporate Compliance > ... > Transportation Law > Interstate Commerce > US Interstate Commerce Commission

HN9 Antitrust & Trade Law, Clayton Act

The evident purpose of § 10 of the Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C.S. § 20, was to prohibit a corporation from abusing a carrier by palming off upon it securities, supplies and other articles without competitive bidding and at excessive prices through overreaching by, or other misfeasance of, common directors, to the financial injury of the carrier and the consequent impairment of its ability to serve the public interest. Even if a purchase of securities might, under other circumstances, violate § 10 of the Clayton Act, Congress, by § 5(11) of the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.S. § 5(11), has authorized the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve it if it finds that so doing is in the public interest. Congress has expressly said that, upon such approval, the carrier shall be relieved from the operation of the anti-trust laws.

Antitrust & Trade Law > Clayton Act > General Overview

Business & Corporate Compliance > ... > Transportation Law > Interstate Commerce > Restraints of Trade

HN10 Antitrust & Trade Law, Clayton Act

Section 10 of the Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C.S. § 20, is included in the "anti-trust laws" referred to in § 5(11) of the Interstate Commerce Act (ICA), 49 U.S.C.S. § 5(11). Section 1 of the Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C.S. § 12, provides that: "anti-trust laws," as used in §§ 12, 13, 14-21, and 22-27 of this title, includes §§ 1-27 of this title. Moreover, § 5(11) of the ICA, 49 U.S.C.S. § 5(11), avoids any ambiguity by including all other restraints, limitations, and prohibitions of law, Federal, State, or municipal.

Administrative Law > Agency Adjudication > Decisions > Contents

Civil Procedure > Judgments > Relief From Judgments > General Overview

Administrative Law > ... > Formal Adjudicatory Procedure > Hearings > General Overview

HN11 Decisions, Contents

The Administrative Procedure Act (APA) applies to proceedings before the Interstate Commerce Commission. The last sentence of § 8(b) of the APA, 5 U.S.C.S. § 1007\(b\), provides in part: All administrative decisions shall become a part of the record and include a statement of: (1) findings and conclusions, as well as the reasons or basis therefor, upon all the material issues of fact, law, or discretion presented on the record; and (2) the appropriate rule, order, sanction, relief, or denial thereof.

Administrative Law > ... > Formal Adjudicatory Procedure > Hearings > General Overview

Transportation Law > Interstate Commerce > General Overview

HN12 Formal Adjudicatory Procedure, Hearings

By the express terms of § 8(b) of the Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C.S. § 1007\(b\), the Interstate Commerce Commission is not required to make subordinate findings on every collateral contention advanced, but only upon those issues of fact, law, or discretion which are material.

Lawyers' Edition Display

---

Summary

Several rail carriers made rival applications to the Interstate Commerce Commission under 5(2) of the Interstate Commerce Act for authority to acquire control of another railroad company. The commission decided in favor of two applicants for joint control which proposed continued operation of the railroad company as a separate and independent carrier. (295 ICC 523.) The unsuccessful applicant then filed a complaint in the United States District Court for the District of Minnesota to vacate the commission's order. Various parties intervened. A three-judge court sustained the order. (165 F Supp 893.)

On separate appeals, the Supreme Court affirmed the judgment below. In an opinion by Whittaker, J., it was held that the order was within the discretion of the commission, even though the acquisition may have violated antitrust laws, and that the commission did not violate the provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act requiring that all administrative decisions include a statement of findings upon all material issues.

Douglas, J., dissented without opinion.

Headnotes

---

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION §39 > findings -- consolidation -- public interest. -- > Headnote:

[LEdHN\[1\]](#) [1]

Findings, made by the Interstate Commerce Commission upon applications by several rail carriers under 5(2) of the Interstate Commerce Act (49 USC 5(2)) for authority to acquire control of another railroad company, that the public interest would be best served by the continued operation of the latter company as a separate and independent carrier, as proposed by the successful applicant, do not deprive the unsuccessful applicant of fair comparative consideration, and are adequately supported by subsidiary findings that the unsuccessful applicant's plan contemplated the disappearance of the railroad company as an independent and neutral connection for the other 15 carriers with which it presently worked, that certain features of that plan would be extremely harmful to other carriers, that the plan contemplated the elimination of the railroad company's offices and the separation of its employees, and that numerous witnesses testified that the separate and independent operation of the railroad company under its present local management was a public necessity.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION §39 > consolidation -- antitrust laws. -- > Headnote:

[LEdHN\[2\]](#) [2]

Although 5(11) of the Interstate Commerce Act (49 USC 5(11)), providing that the authority of the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve combinations and consolidations of carriers under 5 shall be "exclusive and plenary," does not authorize the commission to ignore the antitrust laws, the commission is not to measure proposals for acquisition by one rail carrier of control of another by the standards of the antitrust laws, the problem being one of accommodation of 5(2) and the antitrust legislation, and the commission remaining obligated to estimate the scope and appraise the effects of the curtailment of competition which will result from the proposed acquisition and consider them along with the advantages of improved service and other matters in the public interest to determine whether the acquisition will assist in effectuating the over-all national transportation policy.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION §39 > consolidation -- antitrust laws. -- > Headnote:

[LEdHN\[3\]](#) [3]

H FAVEI HFI HA CAUOAGUEGUA SDOAGGHEGHA JAVEOYUAGH

It must be presumed that, in enacting 5(11) of the Interstate Commerce Act (49 USC 5(11)), which authorizes the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve acquisition by one rail carrier of control of another, if it finds it is in the public interest and which relieves participants in appropriate acquisitions from the requirements of the antitrust laws, Congress took account of the fact that railroads are subject to strict regulation and supervision.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION §39 > consolidation -- antitrust laws. -- > Headnote:

[LEdHN\[4\]](#) [4]

As respects acquisition by one rail carrier of control of another, the Interstate Commerce Commission is not so bound by the antitrust laws that it must permit them to overbear what it finds to be in the public interest.

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW §255 > INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION §176 > review -- consolidation. -- > Headnote:

[LEdHN\[5\]](#) [5]

The wisdom and experience of the Interstate Commerce Commission, not of the courts, must determine whether the proposed acquisition by one rail carrier of control of another is consistent with the public interest.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION §176 > review -- discretion -- consolidation. -- > Headnote:

[LEdHN\[6\]](#) [6]

A determination, made by the Interstate Commerce Commission upon applications by several rival rail carriers under 5(2) of the Interstate Commerce Act (49 USC 5(2)) for authority to acquire control of another railroad company, that the acquisition and plan of operation by the successful applicant would not result in any significant lessening of competition is within the limits of the commission's discretion where it rests upon adequate findings which are, in turn, supported by substantial evidence.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION §39 > RESTRAINTS OF TRADE, MONOPOLIES, AND UNFAIR TRADE

PRACTICES §5 > consolidation -- Clayton Act. -- > Headnote:

[LEdHN\[7\]](#) [7]

Section 10 of the Clayton Act (15 USC 20), which prohibits a common carrier from having any dealings in securities of more than a specified amount with another corporation when the carrier has upon its board of directors a person who is at the same time a director of such corporation, excepting purchases made by competitive bidding under regulations to be prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Commission, is an antitrust law within the meaning of the rule that, as respects acquisition by one rail carrier of control of another, the commission is not so bound by the antitrust laws that it must permit them to overbear what it finds to be in the public interest.

H FAVEI HETI HA CAUO AGUEGULA SDOAG AGHATECH LA JAVESSOYUAGH

SECURITIES REGULATION §3 > carriers -- purpose of statute. -- > Headnote:

[LEdHN\[8\]](#) [8]

The purpose of 10 of the Clayton Act (15 USC 20) is to prohibit a corporation from abusing a carrier by palming off upon it securities, supplies, and other articles without competitive bidding and at excessive prices through overreaching by, or other misfeasance of, common directors to the financial injury of the carrier and the consequent impairment of its ability to serve the public interest.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION §39 > discretion -- consolidation. -- > Headnote:

[LEdHN\[9\]](#) [9]

The approval, under 5(2) of the Interstate Commerce Act (49 USC 5(2)), by the Interstate Commerce Commission of contracts under which a rail carrier proposes to acquire a 50 per cent interest in the stock of another rail carrier does not exceed the statutory limits of the commission's discretion, even though the contracts are in violation of 10 of the Clayton Act (15 USC 20), dealing with purchases by common carriers in case of interlocking directorates.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION §39 > consolidation -- antitrust laws. -- > Headnote:

[LEdHN\[10\]](#) [10]

Apart from criminal prosecutions, approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission of acquisition by one rail carrier of control of another operates under 5(11) of the Interstate Commerce Act (49 USC 5(11)) to relieve the acquiring carrier from the operation of the antitrust laws.

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW §4 > INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION §8 > statute. -- > Headnote:

[LEdHN\[11\]](#) [11]

The Administrative Procedure Act (5 USC 1001 et seq.) applies to proceedings before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW §157 > findings. -- > Headnote:

[LEdHN\[12\]](#) [12]

The requirement of 8(b) of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 USC 1007\(b\)) that all administrative decisions shall include a statement of findings and conclusions upon all material issues is satisfied where an administrative agency, although making no specific finding upon a contention, considers and discusses it.

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW §155 > findings. -- > Headnote:

[LEdHN\[13\]](#) [13]

Section 8(b) of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 USC 1007\(b\)), providing that all administrative decisions shall include a statement of findings and conclusions upon all material issues of fact does not require findings upon contentions that are collateral or immaterial.

APPEAL §1646 > affirmance -- insufficient reasons of court below. -- > Headnote:

[LEdHN\[14\]](#) [14]

Whether or not the United States Supreme Court approves all of the reasons and legal conclusions of the District Court, its judgment sustaining an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission will be affirmed, where the District Court fairly considered and decided all of the issues raised by appellants, accorded to them a full and fair judicial review, and reached a right result.

Syllabus

---

Under § 5 (2) of the Interstate Commerce Act, the Commission was confronted with rival applications by several railroads for authority to acquire control of the Toledo, Peoria & Western Railroad, an independent, short-line, "bridge carrier" of through east-west traffic by-passing the congested Chicago and St. Louis gateways and connecting with 16 other railroads. After extended hearings, the Commission found that the plan for joint control of Western by the Santa Fe and Pennsylvania Railroads contemplated that Western would continue to be operated as a separate and independent carrier with responsible local management and that all existing routes via Western would be maintained and kept open without discrimination between connecting lines of railroads; but that the plan of the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad to acquire sole control of Western contemplated its disappearance as an independent and neutral connection for 15 other carriers, that it would be extremely harmful to other carriers and that it would result in termination of the employment of most of Western's [****2] 24 executives and 225 other employees. The Commission concluded that the acquisition and plan of operation by the Santa Fe and Pennsylvania, subject to stated conditions, was within the scope of § 5 (2) of the Act, that the proposed terms and conditions were just and reasonable, and that the transaction would be consistent with the public interest. It, therefore, approved the Santa Fe-Pennsylvania application, dismissed the Minneapolis application, and denied applications by several intervening railroads for permission to participate in the acquisition of Western's stock. The District Court sustained the Commission's order. Held: The judgment is affirmed. Pp. 176-194.

1. The record shows that the Commission's finding that continued operation of Western as a "separate and independent carrier" was required by the "public interest" did not deprive the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad of "fair comparative consideration" and that it was made after full and fair consideration; and the District Court did not err in so holding. Pp. 184-185.

2. Notwithstanding appellants' contention that acquisition of Western by Santa Fe and Pennsylvania would create a combination in restraint [****3] of commerce in violation of § 1 of the Sherman Act and would lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in violation of § 7 of the Clayton Act, the record shows that the Commission fully estimated the scope and appraised the effects of any resulting curtailment of competition and concluded that the proposed acquisition and plan of operation would not result in any significant lessening of competition; and this determination rests upon adequate findings, supported by substantial evidence, and is well within the limits of the Commission's discretion under the Act. Pp. 185-189.

(a) Although § 5 (11) does not authorize the Commission to "ignore" the antitrust laws, it does authorize the Commission to approve acquisitions which might otherwise violate the antitrust laws, if it finds that such acquisitions are in the public interest, and, upon approval of the acquisitions by the Commission, it relieves the acquiring carriers from the operation of the antitrust laws. Pp. 185-187.

(b) As respects railroad acquisitions, the Commission is not so bound by the antitrust laws that it must permit them to overbear what it finds to be in the public interest, and the wisdom and experience [****4] of the Commission, not of the courts, must determine whether the proposed acquisition is in the public interest. Pp. 187-188.

(c) The Commission gave extensive consideration to this contention of appellants and determined that the acquisition of Western by Santa Fe and Pennsylvania and their plan of operation of Western would not result in any significant lessening of competition; and that determination was based upon adequate findings, supported by substantial evidence, and was well within the limits of the Commission's discretion under the Act. Pp. 188-189.

3. Notwithstanding appellants' contention that Pennsylvania actually contracted to purchase 50% of Western's stock from a trust company which had four common directors with Pennsylvania and that such purchase would violate § 10 of the Clayton Act, the Commission's action in approving Pennsylvania's acquisition of the stock, after fully considering all factors bearing thereon, did not exceed the statutory limits of the Commission's discretion. Pp. 189-191.

4. Whether or not § 5 (11) operates only in futuro is immaterial in this case, since the existing contractual arrangements through which Pennsylvania asked authority [****5] to acquire 50% of Western's stock looked entirely to the future. Pp. 191-192.

5. Notwithstanding appellants' contention that the Commission violated § 8 (b) of the Administrative Procedure Act by failing to make findings which, they think, were compelled by the evidence, the record discloses that the Commission made adequate subsidiary findings upon all material issues and made the ultimate findings required by § 5 (2), that they support the Commission's order and that they are, in turn, supported by substantial evidence. Pp. 192-194.

6. The District Court fairly considered and decided all of the issues raised by appellants, accorded to them a full and fair judicial review, and reached a right result. P. 194.

Counsel: Max Swiren and Harold J. Soderberg argued the cause for appellants. Max Swiren, John G. Dorsey and Richard Musenbrock were on the brief for the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railway Co., appellant in No. 12; Parnell Donohue, Attorney General of South Dakota, Herman L. Bode, Assistant Attorney General, and Ernest W. Stephens for the State of South Dakota et al., appellants in No. 27; and Miles Lord, Attorney General of Minnesota, and Harold J. Soderberg, Assistant Attorney General, [****6] for the State of Minnesota et al., appellants in No. 28.

Robert W. Ginnane and Starr Thomas argued the cause for appellees. Solicitor General Rankin, Acting Assistant Attorney General Bicks, Richard A. Solomon, Robert W. Ginnane and B. Franklin Taylor, Jr. were on the brief for the United States and the Interstate Commerce Commission; Grenville Beardsley, Attorney General of Illinois, and Harry R. Begley, Special Assistant Attorney General, for the State of Illinois; Starr Thomas, Carl E. Bagge and Edwin A. Lucas for the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway Co. et al.; and Robert H. Walker for certain municipalities and shippers et al., appellees.

Judges: Warren, Black, Frankfurter, Douglas, Clark, Harlan, Brennan, Whittaker, Stewart

Opinion by: WHITTAKER

Opinion

---

[*176] [***226] [**232] MR. JUSTICE WHITTAKER delivered the opinion of the Court.

These appeals present questions arising out of rival applications by several rail carriers to the Interstate Commerce Commission under § 5 (2) of the Interstate Commerce Act <sup>1</sup> for authority to acquire control of Toledo, Peoria & Western Railroad Company.

[****7] [*177] "Western [**233] " is an independent, short-line "bridge carrier" <sup>2</sup> of through east-west traffic by-passing the congested Chicago gateway. Its line is about 234 miles long, extending from its connection with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company ("Pennsylvania") at Effner, on the Illinois-Indiana state line, westward, through Peoria, to its connection [***227] with the main line of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway Company ("Santa Fe") at Lomax, Illinois, and thence southwesterly a short distance to Keokuk, Iowa. Its headquarters, shops and yards are located in East Peoria where it has 24 executives and where, and elsewhere along its line, it has about 225 other employees. It has connections for the interchange of traffic with 16 railroads, the principal ones being with the Pennsylvania at Effner, with the Santa Fe at Lomax, and with the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad Company ("Nickel Plate"), the Illinois Terminal Railroad Company, the [*178] Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company ("Burlington") and the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railway Company ("Minneapolis") at Peoria. Its interchange connections with the other 10 railroads are at 17 other towns [****8] along its line.

Western has outstanding 90,000 shares of common capital stock, 82% of which is owned by the testamentary trustees of the estate of George P. McNear -- Wilmington Trust Company and Guy Gladson -- and the remaining 18% is owned by members of the McNear family, a bank and the president of Western. In 1954, the trustees determined to sell their Western stock, and rival efforts were commenced by Minneapolis, on the one hand, and by

---

<sup>1</sup> Section 5 (2) of the Interstate Commerce Act (24 Stat. 380, as amended, 54 Stat. 905, 49 U. S. C. § 5 (2)) HN1 provides, in pertinent part, that:

"(a) It shall be lawful, with the approval and authorization of the Commission, as provided in subdivision (b) of this paragraph --

"(i) for . . . two or more carriers jointly, to acquire control of another through ownership of its stock or otherwise . . . .

. . . .

"(b) Whenever a transaction is proposed under subdivision (a) of this paragraph, the carrier . . . seeking authority therefor shall present an application to the Commission, and thereupon the Commission shall notify . . . [designated parties], and shall afford reasonable opportunity for interested parties to be heard. If the Commission shall consider it necessary in order to determine whether the findings specified below may properly be made, it shall set said application for public hearing; and a public hearing shall be held in all cases where carriers by railroad are involved unless the Commission determines that a public hearing is not necessary in the public interest. If the Commission finds that, subject to such terms and conditions and such modifications as it shall find to be just and reasonable, the proposed transaction is within the scope of subdivision (a) of this paragraph and will be consistent with the public interest, it shall enter an order approving and authorizing such transaction, upon the terms and conditions, and with the modifications, so found to be just and reasonable . . . .

HN2 "(c) In passing upon any proposed transaction under the provisions of this paragraph, the Commission shall give weight to the following considerations, among others: (1) The effect of the proposed transaction upon adequate transportation service to the public; (2) the effect upon the public interest of the inclusion, or failure to include, other railroads in the territory involved in the proposed transaction; (3) the total fixed charges resulting from the proposed transaction; and (4) the interest of the carrier employees affected.

"(d) The Commission shall have authority in the case of a proposed transaction under this paragraph involving a railroad or railroads, as a prerequisite to its approval of the proposed transaction, to require, upon equitable terms, the inclusion of another railroad or other railroads in the territory involved, upon petition by such railroad or railroads requesting such inclusion, and upon a finding that such inclusion is consistent with the public interest.

. . . .

"(f) As a condition of its approval, under this paragraph, of any transaction involving a carrier or carriers by railroad subject to the provisions of this chapter, the Commission shall require a fair and equitable arrangement to protect the interests of the railroad employees affected. . . ."

<sup>2</sup> The term "bridge carrier" appears to mean a short-line carrier which transports through traffic from one long-line carrier to another.

the Santa Fe and Pennsylvania, on the other hand, to purchase it. (Four of Wilmington Trust Company's directors were also directors of Pennsylvania.) Those negotiations culminated in a contract between the trustees and the Santa Fe, dated May 26, 1955, providing for the sale by the former and purchase by the latter of the stock at a price of $ 135 per share, subject to the Commission's approval. <sup>3</sup> Soon afterward, [**234] like agreements [****9] [*179] were made by the Santa Fe with the holders of the remaining 18% of the Western stock.

[****10] On June 28, 1955, the Santa Fe entered into a contract to sell to the Pennsylvania Company, a wholly owned subsidiary of Pennsylvania, 50% of the outstanding capital stock of Western at $ 135 per share, <sup>4</sup> subject [**228] to approval of the Commission.

[****11] On July 8, 1955, the Santa Fe and Pennsylvania Company and its parent, Pennsylvania, applied to the Commission under § 5 (2) of the Act <sup>5</sup> for approval of [*180] those stock purchase agreements and the consequent joint control of Western. The Minneapolis intervened and objected to the application, as did also the States of Minnesota and South Dakota and their respective public service regulatory commissions.

Thereafter, on October 13, 1955, the Minneapolis applied to the Commission, under the same section of the Act, for authority to acquire sole control of Western, expressing its willingness to enter into contracts with Western's stockholders to purchase their stock at the same price and on the same terms as set forth in their existing contracts with the Santa Fe. The Santa Fe, the Pennsylvania Company and Pennsylvania intervened in the latter proceeding and objected to the Minneapolis application.

On motion of Minneapolis, the Commission consolidated the two proceedings. Thereafter, seven [****12] other railroads having interchange connections with Western's line intervened. Two of them sought authority, at all events, <sup>6</sup> and two others of them sought authority, under stated conditions, <sup>7</sup> to participate, under [**235] § 5 (2)(d)

---

<sup>3</sup> During the negotiations, Minneapolis first offered $ 69.50, and later $ 80, per share for the stock. On April 15, 1955, the Santa Fe and Pennsylvania each obtained letter commitments from the trustees for the sale to each of them of 26% of the Western stock at a price of $ 100 per share. (Near the same time the Rock Island made a like offer to the trustees for 26% of the Western stock, but that offer was not accepted.) But a dispute arose -- and apparently still exists between the trustees and Pennsylvania - with respect to the validity of those commitments. Thereupon, Minneapolis offered the trustees $ 133 per share for the Western stock, but that offer was not accepted, and on May 26, 1955, the Santa Fe, acting, as the Commission found, "on behalf of that carrier alone," agreed with the trustees for the sale by the latter and purchase by the former of all the Western stock held by the trustees at a price of $ 135 per share, and those parties on that date entered into a contract, accordingly, subject to approval of the Commission.

<sup>4</sup> The contract of June 28, 1955, between the Santa Fe and the Pennsylvania Company provided that it was without prejudice to any claims, causes of action or rights which Pennsylvania may have against the trustees of the McNear estate with respect to the letter commitment of April 15, 1955, for the sale by the trustees to Pennsylvania of 26% of the Western stock; and that, in the event Pennsylvania should acquire from the trustees, under that letter commitment, all or any part of such shares, the obligation of the Santa Fe under the contract to sell Western shares to the Pennsylvania Company was to be reduced accordingly. It appears that litigation was then, and is yet, pending by Pennsylvania against the trustees for the enforcement of the letter commitment of April 15, 1955.

The contract also contained a covenant which, in essence, provided that (1) Western "will continue to be operated as a separate and independent carrier with responsible management located along its lines in order to preserve to shippers and communities the present direct access to its officials," (2) that Western's properties will be maintained and improved, (3) that Western "will continue to maintain its own solicitation forces and will be entirely free to solicit traffic in such manner as best to serve the interests of" Western, (4) that all "existing routes and channels of trade via [Western] will be maintained and kept open without discrimination between connecting lines of railroad," and (5) that the Board of Directors of Western shall consist of 11 members, of whom one shall be the president of the company, two shall be officers of the Santa Fe, two shall be officers of the Pennsylvania Company, or Pennsylvania, or both, and the remaining six shall be prominent citizens not connected with either of the parties but selected by them through mutual agreement.

<sup>5</sup> See note 1.

[****13] After an extended consolidated hearing before him, the Commission's examiner issued a proposed report recommending approval of the Santa Fe-Pennsylvania application and dismissal of the Minneapolis application. Thereafter, upon exceptions, and briefs and arguments in their support, Division 4 of the Commission issued its report. It was confronted, as it said, with four alternative proposals, (1) for authorization of joint control of Western by the Santa Fe and Pennsylvania, (2) for authorization of sole control by the Minneapolis, (3) for authorization of two other railroads, at all events, and of two more railroads, under stated conditions, to participate in the acquisition of the Western stock on an equal basis with the successful applicant,<sup>8</sup> and (4) denial of both applications.

The Commission found that the Santa Fe-Pennsylvania [****15] plan contemplates that Western "will continue to be operated as a separate and independent carrier with responsible management located along its lines"; that it "will continue to maintain its own solicitation forces and will be entirely free to solicit traffic in such manner as best to serve the interests of the Western," and that all "existing routes and channels of trade via the Western will be maintained and kept open without discrimination between connecting lines of railroad." It found, [**236] on the other hand, that the Minneapolis plan "unequivocally contemplates the disappearance of the Western as an independent and neutral connection for the other 15 carriers with which it presently works"; that "for all practical purposes the Western would be integrated, consolidated, and merged into the Minneapolis for ownership, management, and operation"; that features of the Minneapolis plan "would be extremely harmful to other carriers"; that Western's headquarters office at Peoria would be eliminated, leaving only a trainmaster and a roadmaster at <sup>7</sup> The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company ("Burlington") and the Wabash Railroad Company ("Wabash") did not object to approval of the Santa Fe-Pennsylvania application, provided the order required continuation of present routes and channels of trade via existing junctions and gateways and of all existing traffic and operating relations and arrangements, but they asked, in the event any railroad other than the Santa Fe and Pennsylvania be authorized to acquire an interest in Western's stock, that they, too, be authorized to participate therein to the same extent as any such other railroad.

<sup>8</sup> See notes 6 and 7.

<sup>9</sup> 49 U. S. C., n. preceding § 1, 54 Stat. 899.

[*183] that point, and that the employment of most of Western's 24 executives and 225 other employees would be severed.

The Commission [****16] further found [***230] that "only the Minneapolis and its supporting interveners, the States of Minnesota and South Dakota, advocate the disappearance of the Western as a separate and independent operating carrier," and that all other parties to, and intervenors in, the proceedings "insist that the separate and independent operation of the Western under its present local management is a public necessity." It then found that the "public interest demands that the present policies of the Western in all respects be continued." It thereupon made the ultimate finding, required by § 5 (2)(b) of the Act, that the acquisition and plan of operation by the Santa Fe and Pennsylvania, subject to stated conditions, was "within the scope of section 5 (2) of the Interstate Commerce Act, as amended; that the terms and conditions proposed [by them] are just and reasonable, and that the transaction will be consistent with the public interest." The Commission then entered its order approving the Santa Fe-Pennsylvania application, dismissing the Minneapolis application, and denying the petitions of the several intervening railroads which sought to participate in the acquisition of the Western stock. [****17] 295 I. C. C. 523.

Thereafter, Minneapolis petitioned the whole Commission for a reconsideration, and alternatively requested that, if the approval of the Santa Fe-Pennsylvania application be permitted to stand, it be authorized to participate equally with those railroads in the purchase of Western's stock on the same terms. That petition was denied.

Minneapolis then timely filed a complaint in the District Court for Minnesota against the United States and the Interstate Commerce Commission to vacate the Commission's order. The States of Minnesota and South Dakota and their respective regulatory commissions, [*184] being interested in strengthening the Minneapolis, which operates in those States, intervened in support of the complaint. The defendants answered, asserting the full legality of the Commission's order. The Santa Fe, the Pennsylvania, the Pennsylvania Company, the State of Illinois, the 18 cities and seven chambers of commerce and the numerous shippers who were intervenors before the Commission, intervened in opposition to the complaint. The Nickel Plate intervened, complaining that the Commission had improperly denied its request to participate [****18] in the purchase of the Western stock.

A three-judge court was convened and, after hearing, rendered its opinion and judgment sustaining the Commission's order. 165 F.Supp. 893. On separate appeals by the Minneapolis, the State of Minnesota and its regulatory commission, and the State of South Dakota and its regulatory commission, the case was brought here and we noted probable jurisdiction. 359 U.S. 933. All of those who were defendants and intervenors in opposition to the complaint in the District Court, except the Nickel Plate, are appellees in this Court.

Minneapolis, supported by the States of Minnesota and South Dakota, contends, first, that the Commission improperly adopted at the outset of its report the standard of "separate and independent management" of Western as the criterion governing the comparative [**237] merits of the rival plans, which was antithetic to its application, and thereby deprived it of "fair comparative consideration," and that the District Court erred in approving the Commission's action.

[LEdHN\[1\]](#)  [1]The record does not support that [***231] contention. Rather, it shows that the Commission's governing standard was the "public [****19] interest," although it ultimately did find that the public interest would be best served by Western's continued operation as a "separate and independent carrier." We believe that the recited findings show that the Commission [*185] carefully "weighed" and considered "each application" in its labors to determine which, if either, of them was "consistent with the public interest." Its subsidiary findings (a) that the Minneapolis plan "unequivocally contemplates the disappearance of the Western as an independent and neutral connection for the other 15 carriers with which it presently works," (b) that certain features of the Minneapolis plan "would be extremely harmful to other carriers," (c) that the Minneapolis plan contemplates the elimination of Western's office and the separation of its employees, and (d) that numerous witnesses insisted "that the separate and independent operation of the Western under its present local management is a public necessity," fully support its conclusional finding that the "public interest demands that the present policies of the Western in all respects be continued." That finding, though antithetic to Minneapolis' application, did not deprive it [****20] of "fair comparative consideration," but, on the contrary, it seems to us, was made by the Commission after full and fair consideration, and the District Court did not err in so holding.

On their face these contentions would seem to run in the teeth of the language and purpose of § 5 (11) of the Interstate Commerce Act. That section, in substance, HN3<sup>1</sup> provides that "The authority conferred by this section shall be exclusive and plenary, and any carrier or corporation [*186] participating in . . . any transaction approved by the Commission thereunder, shall have [****21] full power . . . to carry such transaction into effect and to own and operate any properties and exercise any control or franchises acquired through said transaction . . . and any carriers . . . participating in a transaction approved or authorized under the provisions of this section shall be and they are hereby relieved from the operation of the antitrust laws and of all other restraints, limitations, and prohibitions of law . . . insofar as may be necessary to enable [it] to carry into effect the transaction so approved or provided for in accordance with the terms and conditions, if any, imposed by the Commission, and to hold, maintain, and operate any properties and exercise any control or franchises acquired through such transaction." 24 Stat. 380, as amended, 54 Stat. 908, 49 U. S. C. § 5 (11).

[*187] LEdHN3 [↑] [3]HN5 [↑] Even though such acquisitions might otherwise violate the antitrust laws, Congress has authorized the Commission to approve them, if it finds they are in the public interest, "because it recognized that in some circumstances they were appropriate for effectuation of the national transportation policy. It was informed that this policy would be furthered by 'encouraging the organization of stronger units' in the . . . industry. And in [****23] authorizing those [acquisitions] it did not import the general policies of the anti-trust laws as a measure of their permissibility. It in terms relieved participants in appropriate [acquisitions] from the requirements of those laws. § 5 (11)." 321 U.S., at 85. It must be presumed that, in enacting this legislation, Congress took account of the fact that railroads are subject to strict regulation and supervision. "Against this background, no other inference is possible but that, as a factor in determining the propriety of [railroad acquisitions] the preservation of competition among carriers, although still a value, is significant chiefly as it aids in the attainment of the objectives of the national transportation policy." 321 U.S., at 85-86.

[LEdHN\[4\]](#) [4][LEdHN\[5\]](#) [5]HN6 As respects railroad acquisitions, the Commission is not so bound by the antitrust laws that it must permit them to overbear what it finds to be in "the public interest." A contrary view would, in effect, permit the Commission to authorize only those acquisitions which would not offend those laws. "As has been said, this would render meaningless the exemption relieving the participants in a properly approved [****24] [acquisition] of the requirements of those laws . . . ." 321 U.S., at 86. Resolution of the conflicting considerations "is a complex task which requires extensive facilities, expert judgment and considerable knowledge

<sup>11</sup> 15 U. S. C. § 18, 38 Stat. 731.

Here, the Commission gave extensive consideration to the anti-competitive [***233] contentions advanced by appellants, devoting more than five pages of its report [****25] to that matter. It found that "all the carriers endeavoring to participate in its control are in competition with Western"; that the "important thing is not whether there is possibility of competition, but whether there is probability of existing or potential competition being diminished or strangled by the Western under the control of the Santa Fe and the Pennsylvania." After an extended analysis of the complex facts and conflicting evidence, the Commission found that control of Western by the Santa Fe and Pennsylvania [**239] would not result in any significant lessening of competition. It pointed to the fact that although the Santa Fe's "long haul" is to Chicago and the Pennsylvania's "next to longest haul" is also to Chicago (its longest haul being to St. Louis) the Santa Fe has agreed, and is bound, "to place Lomax on a parity with Chicago from a solicitation standpoint, and . . . the Pennsylvania will recognize Effner as one of its principal interchanges along with Chicago and St. Louis"; that "there may be some diversion of traffic, but such diversion would not jeopardize the maintenance of adequate transportation service by the objecting intervening carriers."

[LEdHN\[6\]](#) [6]We think it is clear from this summary of its analysis and findings that the Commission fully estimated the scope and appraised the effects of any curtailment of competition which might result from the acquisition of Western by the Santa Fe and Pennsylvania, and, after having done so, concluded that their acquisition and plan [****27] of operation of Western would not result in any significant lessening of competition. HN7 Congress has left the task of making that determination to the wisdom and experience of the Commission. The determination it has made rests upon adequate findings which are, in turn, supported by substantial evidence and is well within the limits of its discretion under the Act.

[*190] The Commission found that the Santa Fe in entering into the contract of May 26, 1955, with the trustees of the McNear trust was "acting on behalf of that carrier alone." [***234] But even if we assume, for present purposes, that it was acting as well for the Pennsylvania, the result must be the same. Section [****28] 10 of the Clayton Act HNS8(↑) prohibits a common carrier engaged in commerce from having "any dealings in securities" of more than $ 50,000, in the aggregate, in any one year, "with another corporation, . . . when the said common carrier shall have upon its board of directors . . . any person who is at the same time a director [of] such other corporation . . . , except such purchases [as] shall be made . . . by competitive bidding under regulations to be prescribed by [the] Commission." 38 Stat. 734. 15 U. S. C. § 20.

"All [administrative] decisions . . . shall become a part of the record and include a statement of (1) findings and conclusions, as well as the reasons or basis therefor, upon all the material issues of fact, law, or discretion presented on the record; and (2) the appropriate rule, order, sanction, relief, or denial thereof." <sup>14</sup>

<sup>13</sup> The legislative history of § 10 of the Clayton Act, though meager, supports the view stated in the text. In fact, the language of the several drafts of § 10, together with the types of abuses cited in support of its enactment, suggests strongly that the words "dealings in securities" were intended to cover only a carrier's dealings with related persons in its own securities. See H. R. Rep. No. 627, 63d Cong., 2d Sess., p. 3; S. Rep. No. 698, 63d Cong., 2d Sess., pp. 47-48; S. Doc. No. 585, 63d Cong., 2d Sess., pp. 8-9; 51 Cong. Rec. 15943.

[LEdHN\[12\]](#)[↑] [12] Upon the same basis, appellants also argue that the Commission should have found that the Minneapolis application was in the public interest in that its acquisition of Western would greatly strengthen both Minneapolis and Western by eliminating many duplicating facilities and by reducing operating expenses by more than $ 1,770,000 annually. The Commission did not make a specific finding upon that matter, but it did give consideration to it and found that most of that saving -- more than $ 1,300,000 annually -- would be at the expense of Western's employees -- a matter which, because of the express command of clause 4 of § 5 (2)(c) of the Interstate Commerce Act (see note 1), it evidently thought was not [***236] consistent with the public interest. Appellants further argue that the Commission should have found that the Minneapolis plan afforded adequate protection to Western's employees [****34] by providing for their absorption into the Minneapolis as attrition among its own employees permitted. Again, although the Commission made no specific finding upon that contention it did consider and discuss it, and we think the law required no more.

[LeDHN\[14\]](#) [14]Finally, appellants contend that the District Court, because of inadequate subsidiary findings by the Commission, was unable to, or at least did not, afford them [****35] a proper judicial review, and merely "rubber stamped" the Commission's order. Whether or not we approve all of the reasons and legal conclusions of the District Court, it is clear that it fairly considered and decided all of the issues [**242] raised by appellants, accorded to them a full and fair judicial review, and reached a right result. Accordingly the judgment is

MR. JUSTICE DOUGLAS dissents.

Annotation References:

End of Document

<sup>14</sup> 60 Stat. 242, 5 U. S. C. § 1007 \(b\).